Toss not my soul

Take me Assurance to thy blissful hold,

Show me some ground where I may firmly stand,

Or thou Despair unto thy darkest cell, Each hath full rest, the one in which appear, joys enrolled, So one will close me in a certain band, When once of ill the utmost is known, The strength of sorrow most is known, the utter most is known, The which appear, So one will close, so one will close, will joys enrolled, The other, in that, the other, in that he fears no more, is well: Lenovoy

in a certain band, When once of ill the utmost, close me in a certain band, When once of ill the uttermost, fears no more, no more is well:

fears no more, is well: Lenovoy

in a certain band, When once of ill the uttermost, close me in a certain band, When once of ill the uttermost, fears no more, no more is well:

which appear, joys enrolled, So one will close, so one will close, will joys enrolled, The other, in that he

fears no more, is well: Lenovoy

in a certain band, When once of ill the utmost, close me in a certain band, When once of ill the uttermost, fears no more, no more is well:

fears no more, is well: Lenovoy

in a certain band, When once of ill the utmost, close me in a certain band, When once of ill the uttermost, fears no more, no more is well:

which appear, joys enrolled, So one will close me in a certain band, When once of ill the utmost is known, The strength of sorrow
row quite is o-ver-thrown.

of sor-row quite is o-ver-thrown.

strength of sor-row quite is o-ver-thrown.

quite is o-ver-thrown.