night, and rough the way before thee, Strife all around, and fear and doubt within; Oh! weary God's watchful care is o'er thee: Courage! toil on, and thou the goal shalt win, Trust thou in God, and soon the strife shall

in the thee:

soon thine

Rage!
Far in the east the golden morn is breaking, And radiant dim.

God, and soon the night shall cease,
And He shall give to thee His heav'n-ly peace;
Trust then in God, and soon the storm shall cease,
And He shall give to thee His heav'n-ly peace;
Trust then in God, and soon the storm shall cease,
And He shall give to thee His heav'n-ly peace;
Trust then in God, and soon the storm shall cease,
And He shall give to thee eternal peace.
