Novello, Ewer and Company
(1870)

Louis Alexander Emanuel (1819-1889) was born in Plymouth, Devonshire, England, and trained at the Royal Academy of Music. He was appointed bandmaster to the King's Royal Rifle Corps and saw active duty in India. He was Jewish and served as choirmaster at the Bayswater Synagogue in London. He was also long-time music director at Vauxhall Gardens, London.

Gentle winds around her hover,
Seek the bower where she sleeps,
Whisper, zephyrs, how I love her,
Tho' my lip still silent keeps;
Tell her that my peace is flown,
Say my heart is all her own;
Mingle, zephyrs, with her sigh,
Bid her let me hope or die.

Gentle moon that shin'st above her,
In yon dark blue vault afar,
Whisper, softly, how I love her, *
Say she is my guiding star; **
Let thy pure and holy beams
Fall upon her while she dreams,
Murmur, moonbeams, how I sigh,— ***
But for her I live— or die!

Joseph Edwards Carpenter (1813-1885)

The version of this poem in "Later Lyrics: by J. E. Carpenter" (1878) has the following variants to the text in the part-song as published by Novello.

* "Tell her, too, how much I love her,"
 "That she is my guiding star;"
 "Bear her then my latest sigh,"

TERMS OF USE

These editions are available as a service to the choral community, offering inexpensive access to public domain literature. Choir resources can purchase other literature still under copyright, especially to support those creating and publishing new compositions and arrangements. These editions have been created using public domain sources under U. S. copyright law. Out of respect to the research, time and effort invested:

- please print and issue an edition in its entirety, retaining notices, attributions, and logos.
- please do not consider this edition a source for creating another edition.

If performed, sending a copy of the concert program would be a valuable affirmation. If recorded, notification and attribution would be appropriate professional courtesies and a copy of the recording would be greatly appreciated!
