Text

Bow down thine ear, O Lord, and hear me : for I am poor, and in misery.
Preserve thou my soul, for I am holy : my God, save thy servant that putteth his trust in thee.
Be merciful unto me, O Lord : for I will call daily upon thee.
Comfort the soul of thy servant : for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.
For thou, Lord, art good and gracious : and of great mercy unto them that call upon thee.
Give ear, Lord, unto my prayer : and ponder the voice of my humble desires.
(Book of Common Prayer, psalm 86, vv.1–6)

Editorial Conventions

The nomenclature of the voice-parts follows the Tudor convention.
The original clef, staff signature, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves.
Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned and remain operative throughout the bar.
Ligatures are denoted by the sign , coloration by the sign .

Source A, the only complete text of this motet, is in a fragile state owing to the scribe's use of excessively acidic ink which has corroded the pages, making the notation often difficult and sometimes impossible to read.

In bars 65 and 66 A has some F sharps and B naturals that make little musical sense. The naturals for the Bs in bar 66 are also present in B and C, but at least A and B may ultimately derive from a common, faulty archetype, as suggested by the failure of both scribes to make sense of an evident corruption in the Mean in bars 16–17. It is conceivable that the sharp to the F in the Treble in bar 65 resulted from misinterpreting a sharp placed below the B of the preceding ligature in an earlier source and that the other accidentals were a consequence of this.

Notes on the Readings of the Sources

Each reference to a bar or group of bars is separated by an oblique stroke. Within these references multiple readings in the same voice are separated by commas and readings in different voices by semicolons. The order within each entry is: 1) bar number; 2) voice; 3) source(s); 4) reading of the source(s). Pitches are in capital letters, preceded by a number where necessary, e.g. ²G = 2nd note G in the bar. Note values are abbreviated, e.g. dot-cr = dotted crotchet. The symbol + denotes a tie.

Staff signatures and accidentals
