Jeremiah Ingalls, 1805

Tr. ⁵ ¹⁰

1. Come and taste along with me, Con-so-la-tion running free, From our Father's worthy home, Sweeter than the honey comb. From our Father's worthy home, Sweeter than the honey comb.
2. Goodness here, and goodness there, Comforts flowing everywhere; By his constant breaking forth, Gladdens earth and heaven both. By his constant breaking forth, Gladdens earth and heaven both.
3. Though my body doth its best, For to keep me off from Christ, Drawn by grace I'll run to him, Who alone can pardon sin. Drawn by grace I'll run to him, Who a-lone can par-don sin.

T. ⁸

4. Now I'll go to heaven's door, Asking for a lit-tle more; Je-sus gives a double share, Calling me a gleaner there. Je-sus gives a double share, Calling me a gleaner there.
5. Sin-ful nature lurks in vice. Cannot stop the works of grace; While there is a God to give, And a sin-ner to re-ceive. While there is a God to give, And a sin-ner to re-ceive.
6. Now I'll go rejoicing home. From the banquet of perfume; Gleaning many on the road, Dropping from the mouth of God. Gleaning many on the road, Dropping from the mouth of God.

B.

7. Goodness running like a stream. Through the new Jerusalem; By his constant breaking forth, Gladdens earth and heaven both. By his constant breaking forth, Gladdens earth and heaven both.
8. Heaven's here and heaven's there, Comforts flowing everywhere; This I boldly can protest, For my soul has got a taste. This I boldly can protest, For my soul has got a taste.
