

Aeroplane Song

Clinton D. Lowden
(1891-1959)

Clinton Dudley Lowden (1891-1959) was born in Burlington, New Jersey. He entered the banking business and was a bond salesman. An amateur musician, he wrote a number of hymns and songs, published by the Hall-Mack Company of Philadelphia where his older brother Carl was editor. He died in Cherry Hill, Camden, New Jersey.

O'er the clouds our aeroplane is winging,
We are flying, we are flying;
Far to earth our happy shouts are ringing,
We are soaring high.

*On, ever onward, still our course we steer;
On, ever onward, hearts can know no fear;
Sail, sail with gladness, 'neath a cloudless sky
With ship of air
The heights we'll dare,
We soar on high!*

Swift we sweep o'er mountain and o'er meadow,
We are flying, we are flying;
Sail we on in sunlight or in shadows,
We are soaring high.

Outstretched planes as pinions now are bending,
We are flying, we are flying;
Lofty heights we're fearlessly ascending.
We are soaring high.

Elsie Duncan Yale (1873-1956)
