Translation

Christ rising from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him: for in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Alleluia, Alleluia.

Ÿ. Now let the Jews declare how the soldiers guarding the sepulchre lost the king with the stone in place and wherefore they kept not the rock of righteousness; let them either deliver up the buried one or adore him risen, saying with us;

Alleluia, Alleluia.

Liturgical Function

In the pre-Reformation Use of Salisbury Christus resurgens was a processional antiphon sung on many occasions during Eastertide:

1. Before Matins on Easter morning;
2. After Lauds and Vespers daily during Easter week;
3. Before Mass and after First Vespers on Sundays from Easter Day to the Sunday before the Feast of the Ascension.

Depending on the day and the service, the verse Dicant nunc Judaei might be sung by the choir, by two clerics from the higher stalls, by two clerics of the second form (the less senior priests, deacons, subdeacons and lay clerks), or it might be omitted. Gore's setting must have been intended for occasions when the verse was sung by two. These were:

1. After Lauds on Easter Monday (sung by two from the higher stalls)
2. After First Vespers on the Octave of Easter (sung by two from the higher stalls)
3. After First Vespers on the Sunday before the Ascension (sung by two from the higher stalls)
4. After Lauds on Easter Tuesday and Wednesday (sung by two clerics of the second form)
5. After First Vespers on Sundays from Easter II to the second Sunday before the Ascension (sung by two clerics of the second form).

Polyphonic duets like the present one were most likely sung by lay clerks from the choir, irrespective of the persons stipulated by the Salisbury customs.

Gore's polyphony paraphrases the plainsong verse and its pitch matches that at which the antiphon appears in the processional. This edition transposes it down a fifth for tenor and bass soloists and transposes the plainsong up a fourth.

Editorial Conventions

The original clef, staff signature, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves at the start of the polyphony.

Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned and remain operative throughout the bar.

The sign  denotes a ligature.

Repeat signs in the underlay have been tacitly expanded.

Underlay between square brackets is omitted in the source.
